Dear Friends:

I recently joined a book club and have been enjoying reading new books with new friends. One of our latest reads was "A Gentleman in Moscow" by Amor Towles. However, when I went to purchase the book using my e-reader, I found out the price was $13.99!! That seemed to be steep price for a book I wasn't sure I would like and that I wouldn't be able to resell or donate. I checked with my favorite Elgin Public Library and, guess what? We had it in the collection, it was in beautiful condition, and it cost $0.00!! Not only that, if a book you need isn't in the collection, you can ask one of the helpful, erudite librarians to request it through interlibrary loan. Through agreements with other libraries, the Elgin Public Library can usually get the book you want within a week or so, and at just the cost of return shipping.

What a service, what a price, and what a gift our library is to our community.

Laura Stough
-President, Friends of the Elgin Library.
